O For A Thousand Tongues To Sing

*O for a thousand tongues to sing my great Redeemer's praise,
The glories of my God and King, the triumphs of His grace.*

About the music. . .

Charles Wesley (brother of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist movement) wrote nearly sixty-five-hundred hymn-poems, including Hark! The Herald Angels Sing. He wrote the text of this majestic hymn in 1749. It was later set to music by Carl Glaser. O for a Thousand Tongues to Sing is considered above all others to be the “theme song” of the Methodist church.

Performance notes. . .

One of my favorite arranging ideas is to begin with just the melody, gradually adding harmony with each verse, until I have built to full chords.

Measure 1 begins with the melody in single notes, leading to two-part harmony at the pickup to measure 9. Full chords begin at measure 17, with a moving bass line at measure 25. I like to imagine a massive pipe organ playing this part.

At the pickup to measure 33, it's back to single string melody, and a touch of two-part harmony again at the pickup to measure 37.

I used a classical thumb and fingers technique (although I did wear a thumbpick!).

About the recording. . .

I used a deep-body, Kirk Sand nylon-string electric.
