

As a composer and arranger, I often have the feeling that every song has a life of its own. If that's true, then no song has had a more interesting life than Let There Be Peace On Earth.

It began in 1955 at a summer workshop for teenagers in California. When those teenagers, of all races and religions, returned to their homes throughout the country, they continued to sing the song and share it with others. Before long, Let There Be Peace On Earth was being sung at concerts, celebrations and ceremonies throughout all fifty states. Eventually, it was recorded by dozens of popular singers and spread throughout the world. It was a theme for Human Rights Day, United Nations Day, the American Legion, the B'nai B'rith and the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), as well as many other groups.

A true song of brotherhood, Let There Be Peace On Earth has been awarded the George Washington Honor Medal by the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge as well as a Brotherhood Award from the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

From its humble beginnings, Let There Be Peace On Earth has traveled around the globe spreading a message of world peace and understanding. . . a message that has as much meaning today as it did in 1955.
