Brandy

Words and Music by ELLIOT LURIE

Verse 1:

There's a port on a western bay,
and it serves a hundred ships a day.
Lonely sailors pass the time away
and talk about their homes.
And there's a girl in this harbor town,
and she works laying whiskey down.
They say, "Brandy, fetch another round."
She serves them whiskey and wine.

Chorus:

The sailors say, "Brandy, you're a fine girl,
what a good wife you would be.
Yeah, your eyes could steal
a sailor from the sea."

Verse 2:

Brandy wears a braided chain
made of finest silver from the north of Spain,
a locket that bears the name of a man that Brandy loves.
He came on a summer's day
bringing gifts from far away.
But he made it clear, he couldn't stay.
No harbor was his home.

Chorus:

The sailors say, "Brandy, you're a fine girl,
what a good wife you would be.
But my life, my lover,
my lady is the sea."

Bridge:

Yeah, Brandy used to watch his eyes
when he told his sailor's story.
She could feel the ocean fall and rise,
she saw its raging glory.
But he had always told the truth,
Lord, he was an honest man.
And Brandy does her best to understand.

Verse 3:

At night when the bars close down,
Brandy walks through a silent town,
and loves a man who's not around.
She still can hear him say...

Chorus:

She hears him say,
"Brandy, you're a fine girl,
what a good wife you would be.
But my life, my lover,
my lady is the sea, is the sea.

Outro:

He said, "Brandy, you're a fine girl,
what a good wife you would be.
But my life, my lover,
my lady is the sea.
It is, it is, yes, it is."
"Brandy, you're a fine girl,
what a good wife you would be.
But my life, my lover,
my lady is the sea."
