CONTENTS

Interview with Jordan Rudess ............................................................................................................. 2
Lead Notation Guide .......................................................................................................................... 14

Keyboard Exercises by Jordan Rudess

Pitch bending (Bending Time) ........................................................................................................... 14
Arpeggiated chord inversions (Spacetime Vest) ................................................................................. 32
Repeated figures with shifting accent patterns (Dancing Home) .................................................. 46
Two-handed playing of wide-range melodic leads (Hand Faith) .................................................... 66
Synchronization between left and right hands playing parallel figures (Honor Your Teacher) .... 86
Alternation between triplet and sixteenth-note rhythms in lead lines (Octawizard) .................... 107
Extremely rapid passages (Bee Enemy) ............................................................................................. 146
Polyphonic lead playing (The Lost Etude) ......................................................................................... 189

Dream Theater Keyboard Transcriptions

Song ......................................................... Album ................................................................. Page
Take the Time ......................................... Images and Words ...................................................... 16
Space-Dye Vest ........................................... Awake ................................................................. 34
Scene Six: Home ....................................... Metropolis, Part 2: Scenes from a Memory .......... 48
Blind Faith ................................................ Six Degrees of Inner Turbulence ......................... 68
Honor Thy Father ...................................... Train of Thought ..................................................... 88
Octavarium ............................................. Octavarium .......................................................... 110
In the Presence of Enemies-Part 1 .............. Systematic Chaos .............................................. 148
The Ministry of Lost Souls ......................... Systematic Chaos ............................................... 192
In the Presence of Enemies-Part 2 .............. Systematic Chaos ............................................... 164

Alfred Publishing Co., Inc.
16320 Roscoe Blvd., Suite 100
P.O. Box 10003
Van Nuys, CA 91410-0003
alfred.com

Copyright © MMIX by Alfred Publishing Co., Inc.
All rights reserved. Printed in USA.

ISBN-10: 0-7390-5801-0

Music transcribed and engraved by Chris Romero, except “Take the Time,” transcribed and engraved by Jordan Baker

Front cover photography and layout © 2008 Paul Undersinger
Back cover photography © Janet Balmer
Interior cover photography © Janet Balmer, except Continuum fingerboard photo © Atsushi Sato
Polyphonic Lead Playing: The Lost Etude

You are gonna wish this one was lost by time you finish with it! It’s not going away, so DEAL WITH IT!

The passage in “The Ministry of Lost Souls” that inspired this etude is a special point for me in every Dream Theater performance. I can always tell my level of preparedness by the way I pull this off. It combines quick playing of thirds and sixths as well as a technique I refer to as the “lazy pinky” technique, although there is not much “lazy” about it!

The “lazy pinky” idea started as a blues piano riff concept, and basically refers to the idea of letting the fifth finger of the right hand fall along with other lower notes while playing passages. The important goal here is to develop your skill for playing a combination of single notes and double notes within the moving line. Look out for some cool syncopation between the right hand and left hand at measure 6. I love bouncing rhythmically between the two hands.

The inspiration for this etude (page 190) is from measure 181 (page 203) of “The Ministry of Lost Souls” from Systematic Chaos.

Photo © Atushi Sato