BATTALIA

Heinrich Biber Arranged by Brendan McBrien

Conductor Score

Violin I

Violin II

Viola

Cello

String Bass

PROGRAM NOTES

Bohemian born Heinrich Biber (1644–1704) was a notable composer as well as one of the greatest violin virtuosos of the Baroque era. He spent most of his professional life working in Salzburg, Austria. Bartalia, which in Italian means battle, was composed in 1673, some 25 years after the end of The Thirty Years' War (1618–1648) that devastated nearly all of Europe and which no doubt shaped the world in which young Biber grew up. It is a very unusual work from this period as it contains descriptive elements within the music that were rarely heard.

Please note: Our band and orchestra music is now being collated by an automatic highspeed system. The enclosed parts are now sorted by page count, rather than score order.

Notes to the Conductor

Depicting the sounds of war, this Baroque masterpiece features many special effects including bow tapping, paper under strings, solos for all instruments, and a musical collage that would thrill Charles Ives! A true feast for the ears. This arrangement features six movements from Biber's original eight, ending with a moving tribute to the fallen of war.

The movements are:

I. Sonata – The shouting of commands is heard in the music's rhythmic patterns,  $\downarrow \downarrow \downarrow - x x x$ , which sound like "Aten-hut!," "Sir-yes-sir!" In this movement, the players are asked to tap the side of their instruments with the wood of the bow (col legno could be substituted if desired).

II. The Profligate Society of Common Humor – This "musical joke" depicts the soldiers in camp singing popular and folk songs piled one on top of the other in a drunken chorus of regional pride. There are 8 songs in 7 keys: D, C, D, F, A, G, E. "Here all parts are dissonant," writes Biber, "since different songs are being bellowed out at once." Charles Ives would have approved!

III. Presto – The antics and bravura of the troops before battle.

IV. The March – The solo violin portrays the flute or fife, and the solo bass imitates the snare drum through the insertion of a piece of paper under the A string.

V. The Battle – The sounds of cannon and musket fire provided by the basses "snap" pizzicato.

VI. Lament of the Wounded Musketeers – The pitiful cries of the dying and wounded are heard in this solemn tribute to the fallen of war.

Battalia

Copyright © 2010 by Highland/Etling Publishing, a division of Alfred Music Publishing All rights reserved. Printed in USA.

mp3 Purchase a full-length performance recording! alfred.com/downloads

4

*Strike the side of the instrument with the wood of the bow.

II. The Profligate Society of Common Humor "Here, everywhere there is clamor, for from such different sounds let them shout their songs with great fervor!"

III. Presto "Revelries Before Battle"

*The bass imitates a snare drum by weaving a piece of paper under the A string and over the D and E strings.

