PROGRAM NOTES

Selected from a group of twelve songs by the “Chopin of Spain,” Enrique Granados, the texts present stories of majos and majas (men and women of Madrid) and their assorted liaisons. In the first movement, a maja states that, in no uncertain terms, she will sing to him...no matter what he says or does to her. “La Maja Dolorosa” is a majas sorrowful song of her love lost. The final movement weaves the tale of one of three majos (one discreet, one forgotten, and one timid). Enrique Granados was born July 27, 1867 in Lérida, near Barcelona. He is recognized today as one of Spain’s most important composers; one whose multi-faceted, often Nationalistic music, is instantly recognizable and distinctly his own.

NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

Originally scored for piano and voice, you can also find several fine recordings to hear the work in its original form. Because these songs are vocal-oriented, there are many liberties taken with expressions of tempi and dynamics. These songs were introduced to me by a university colleague, and soprano, Dr. Margaret Jackson, for whom I originally transcribed four of these songs to be performed with chamber winds. The experience of conducting these in a small ensemble setting with a highly trained professional singer provided great interpretive insight that I tried to capture in this version, hence the abundance of dynamic markings, articulations, and tempi variations.

A reference concert video of Dr. Jackson's performance with my original chamber group instrumentation may be viewed on YouTube by searching "Tonadillas-Troy University Chamber Winds."

It is my hope that you, your musicians, and your audiences will enjoy this wonderful music.
