Tuning Your Ukulele

First make sure your strings are wound properly around the tuning pegs. They should go from the inside to the outside, as in the picture.

Turning a tuning peg clockwise makes the pitch lower. Turning a tuning peg counter-clockwise makes the pitch higher. Be sure not to tune the strings too high because they could break!

Important:

Always remember that the string closest to the floor is the 1st string. The one closest to the ceiling is the 4th string.

Books 1 & 2

Tuning with the Audio Tracks

Tracks 1 & 2

Using Audio Tracks

Access the online audio (see inside front cover), and play Tracks 1 and 2. Listen to the directions and match each of your ukulele's strings to its pitch on the audio tracks.

Using Your DVD

Put the DVD in your computer or DVD player. Go to the Scenes menu and click on Tuning. Follow the directions and listen carefully to get your ukulele in tune.

Tuning without the Audio Tracks or DVD

Tuning the Ukulele to Itself

When your 1st string is in tune, you can tune the rest of the strings just using the ukulele alone. First tune the 1st string to A on the piano, then follow the instructions to the right to get the ukulele in tune.

Press fret 5 of string 2 and tune it to the pitch of string 1 (A).

Press fret 4 of string 3 and tune it to the pitch of string 2 (E).

Press fret 2 of string 4 and tune it to the pitch of string 1 (A).

Pitch Pipes and Electronic Tuners

If you don't have a piano available, buying an electronic tuner or pitch pipe is recommended. The salesperson at your music store can show you how to use them.

Step 2: Draw a number “4” sitting on the bottom line below the number 3.
