The Composer

Chris Sharp is a Florida native raised in Cocoa Beach. He received a Bachelor of Music degree in theory and composition from the University of Florida, where he performed in bands under Frank Wickes and Gary Langford, and studied privately with Richard W. Bowles and Edward Troupin. He earned a Master of Music degree in studio writing and production from the University of Miami, studying with Gary Lindsay, James Progris, Alfred Reed, Ron Miller, and Whit Sidener.

Since 1984, Mr. Sharp has served as a staff arranger for Walt Disney World Creative Services, providing music for events ranging from atmosphere entertainment groups to national television broadcasts. He has also written for Universal Studios (Florida and California); Ringling Brothers Circus; high school and college bands throughout the United States; and several service bands, including the famed USAF Airmen of Note. Active nationwide as a clinician, adjudicator, and commissioned writer, Mr. Sharp's present focus is on developing material for high school and middle school concert bands, jazz bands, and small ensembles. He currently resides in Gainesville, Florida, where he is a Ph.D. candidate in composition at the University of Florida.

About the Music

With the growing Hispanic communities in the United States, we have experienced a surge in the popularity of Cuban and Puerto Rican salsa music. We hear it everywhere, from selling us products on television to making our cell phones more musical. ¡Salsa Caliente! is a great opportunity to reveal to your students this energetic and infectious music.

Central to the success of this style is the rhythm section. The drum set part is very detailed and specific. If your drummer is inexperienced in this genre, the written part should be closely followed. Don't confuse this with other Latin styles such as samba—salsa is its own thing entirely. While the percussion part is not essential to the performance, its addition will help to properly propel the style. The piano part is a key ingredient. Be sure it is performed accurately, observing all articulations.

Wind players should perform with vigor, again closely observing all indicated articulations. Longer duration notes should be held full value into the following note with no space or decrease in intensity. Stick to a precise and even eighth-note interpretation—there is no “laying back” in salsa. The full ensemble unison beginning at bar 87 should be light and rhythmic, not heavy and ponderous. The solo section can be opened up or repeated as desired, and a percussion break can be inserted at almost any phrase ending.

Although fully scored, this piece can be successfully performed using a minimum instrumentation of four saxes (AATT), three trumpets, two trombones, piano, bass, and drums.
